CORONA-19 EXPOSED

Many scientists, doctors and civil society organisations, in different parts of the world, are preparing to sue their governments for financial losses incurred by ordinary citizens as a result of the draconian and unscientific measures enforced by them to combat the CORONA-19 virus. In Ireland, for instance, an organisation has taken positive steps to prove that the virus, that has devastated the economies of countries all over the world, does not exist.

In order to prove their hypothesis, they have asked those agencies directly involved in the nations' health, to provide them with certain information. Here are some of the pertinent questions they asked:

- 1 Can you provide us with scientific proof that the COVERT-19 virus has been isolated in laboratory and that it actually exists?
- 2 Is there proof that lockdowns have any impact on the spread of viruses?
- 3 Can you provide us with evidence that studies exist that prove that face masks are safe and that they actually deter the spread of the viruses?
- 4 Can you provide us with evidence that social distancing is based on science, and that it can be used as a means to stop a pandemic?
- 5 Is there evidence that contact tracing and isolation has in any way assisted in curtailing the spread of the virus?
- 6 How can a reliable test be developed to detect the presence of a particular virus, if the virus itself has never been isolated?
- 7 What guarantee do we have that other spurious viruses will not be announced as a serious health risk to society? Will these viruses be equally speculative?
- 8 How can a virus that has not been isolated and for which there is no evidence that it exists, mutate?
- 9 How can a vaccine be effective if the pathogen it is designed to treat has not been isolated?
- 10 What parent would allow their child to be vaccinated with a vaccine that has not been tested on animals? A highly experimental treatment designed to protect against a virus could produce serious health risks.

These are precisely the questions the CDP wants to ask the Notorious Nine, aided and abetted by those "health experts", who have set themselves up as the guardians of the nation's health. We further want to ask them, that if we should sue them for acting irresponsibly, will they immediately counter that with a draconian law preventing us from doing so.
